PROFESSIONAL SUMMARY

Program and operations leader with a track record of building systems, teams, and programs that help people perform consistently in complex, high-stakes environments. Experienced in designing onboarding and training infrastructure, leading cross-functional initiatives end-to-end, and creating the operational foundations that enable organizations to scale. Brings a people-first approach developed across crisis services, research, and service industry leadership — combined with a growing technical toolkit and daily use of AI tools to design workflows, documentation, and learning content. Thrives in collaborative environments where communication, clarity, and human connection are as important as execution.
